

Johannesburg Monitoring & Evaluation Handbook

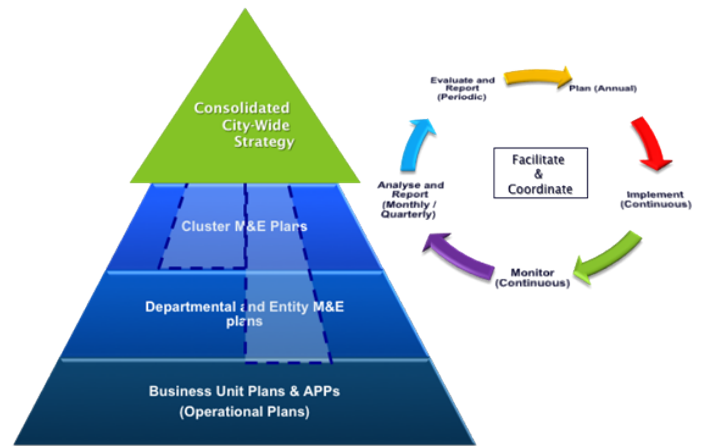

To enable and strengthen the practical implementation of Monitoring and Evaluation in and across the City of Johannesburg (CoJ).

In line with the requirements of the City of Johannesburg’s Monitoring & Evaluation (M&E) Framework, 2012, the assignment developed a practical M&E Handbook to support the implementation of its Framework. The M&E Handbook is intended as a practical resource reinforcing the City’s outcomes-based approach to programming and performance management, enabling the City to become increasingly results-oriented.

Review of secondary data on key organisational strategies and plans relevant to the City’s performance planning, monitoring, evaluation and reporting processes; and primary data on the actual practice of these processes in the City. Triangulation of primary data, secondary information reviewed, and good practice guidelines on outcomes-based M&E.

Located within and complementary to existing planning, performance management and M&E legislation, programmes, guidelines, policies and procedures, the Handbook is a guide with practical tools on ‘how to’ go about strengthening and mainstreaming results-oriented planning, monitoring and evaluation within the City’s core administration and across its municipal entities.
